An international study of psychological flexibility among patients with cancer. Psychological flexibility (PF) is a conceptual framework that is being increasingly used within psychotherapy research and clinical practice to understand and change maladaptive mal-conditioning beliefs that underpin psychological distress and disease. The aim of the current study was to develop and evaluate an interviewer-assisted language-version of a measure of PF for use in patients with cancer. The Patient Acceptance and Action Questionnaire-2 (PAQ-2) was modified into the Patient Acceptance and Action Questionnaire-3 (PAQ-3) and given to 70 patients with cancer to translate into Malay. Rasch analysis was used to evaluate unidimensionality and reliability of this version of the PAQ-3. Exploratory factor analysis was used to explore the structure of the PAQ-3 in this sample. Of interest to clinicians, the correlation between the PAQ-3 and the related measure, the Acceptance and Action Questionnaire-State Specific-2 (AAQ-2), was assessed in the study sample. A total of 20 items were retained in the Malay PAQ-3. The unidimensional structure of the PAQ-3 was confirmed in this sample, with all items loading on one factor. The intraclass correlation coefficient for test-retest reliability was 0.93. The correlation between PAQ-3 and AAQ-2 was 0.83. Further validation work will be required to assess psychometric properties of the PAQ-3. This is an important step towards the development of a PF measure that is widely applicable and includes in its assessment section a component relevant to decision-making with respect to intensive care.--TEST-- phar get-summary-info test#1 (3). --INI-- phar.require_hash=0 --SKIPIF--

Ask HN: Do you follow the HN daily rank, usually at 15:00 UTC? - marcammillion I am curious what others do and why. They have done an awesome job of keeping the site awesome and fast. I always check the daily rank to see how things are growing and what the most active user groups are. A while ago the site actually froze when I checked due to a Chrome problem, but now it seems to be fine. What is your deal? ===== hellrich I do follow the daily rank, but at the moment there are not many changes. The front page is still the most important tool on HN for most users. Q: Using DataTrigger to target specific property based on a data object I'm trying to achieve the following result. I want to have a TextBlock, where only the property that is set to TRUE should be visible (in this case it should be the BackgroundProperty). There are 3 objects in my data model, "MyClass" : MyObjectType { string Name { get; set; } string Description { get; set; } bool BackgroundProperty { get; set; } } MyObjectType2 { string Name { get; set; } string Description { get; set; } bool BackgroundProperty { get; set; } } MyObjectType3 { string Name { get; set; } string Description { get; set; } bool BackgroundProperty { get; set; } } This is my XAML:
